

LOWDEN LEADS WOOD BY NINE VOTES IN EIGHTH

OLD GUARD PLANS ARE REVEALED

Try Out Leaders to Test Strength of Each

JOHNSON NOT DECEIVED

Californian May Be Forced To Take Second Place

(By DAVID LAWRENCE)

COLISEUM, CHICAGO—Even if the public could be told all that was said, all that was promised, all that was planned in the conferences which lasted well into the morning, the said public would only know the strategy—not the result. For as the Republican National Convention enters into its final stage—the actual naming of candidates for president and vice-president—the pledges and assurances exchanged behind closed doors by the busy managers of individual aspirants for the nomination mean only a concerted effort to name a conservative acceptable to the regular Republican organization. The order of events based upon some knowledge of what the board of strategy is mapping out is on the inside of this convention is this:

1. Let Wood show his maximum strength on the first few ballots, and let Johnson hold his delegates intact.

2. Let Lowden come up and pass Wood in the totals. Make a final drive inside the New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts delegations for Lowden.

3. If Lowden doesn't get the "break" and merely holds his lines intact with no evident chance of taking delegates from Leonard Wood, a ballot or two for Johnson's benefit will be tried.

4. If all three leaders fail to get a majority, the board of strategy will offer Knox or Sproul or Harding with the certainty that Harding will at least be given the vice presidency, if Johnson declines it.

5. If the convention refuses Knox or Sproul or Harding then Senator Penrose and the Old Guard who are sitting on the board of managers will be compelled to go to other compromise candidates like Hughes, Lenroot, but none of the insiders believes the situation will get that far.

JOHNSON IS WISE

Now there is a shrewd gentleman by the name of Hiram Johnson who knows what is happening on the inside and who knows what the effort of the Old Guard is going to be. He is being assured that he will have his chance just as soon as Wood is eliminated and Lowden's strength is tested and the hint is given him that he had better hold his delegates until each one of his rivals has finally gotten out of the race. But the California Senator has played the poker of politics in his own state and also in the United States and he is, not to easily held in line. Indeed, Mr. Johnson is keeping the Lowden forces on edge by continually hinting or gesturing in the direction of Leonard Wood. If Johnson threw his delegates to Wood, the eminent major general would win this nomination in a walk. So long, however, as Johnson thinks there is a remote chance for him to win, he will not withdraw in anybody's favor. So it is necessary for the managers who oppose Wood to keep nagging before Johnson to keep the prospect of winning the nomination alive. It is interesting to record in this connection that Senator Johnson has had within the last 24 hours conferences with Tobias Hart, manager of the Lowden boom and with Mr. T. King, who represents Senator Penrose. Both King and Hart are vehemently opposed to the Wood candidacy and to Frank Hitchcock, Mr. Hitchcock, by the way, is represented as having told Massachusetts delegates that if he wins this fight for Wood, Will Hays will be displaced as national chairman and the other postmaster general will run the campaign.

ALFORNIA OUT OF IT

So far the messages are carried out and forth and the bluffs and threats are made in the great nomination game. Johnson is really out of it and is powerful only in that he can name the presidential candidate by releasing his delegates and withdrawing in favor of another candidate. The belief persists that he will be once convinced that he will win. He will go on the ticket with Philander C. Knox, former secretary of state, former attorney general, former friend of Roosevelt and unquestionably the man who would and favor not merely the all important Pennsylvania delegation which is one of the balance of power with the New York and Massachusetts delegations. Mr. Knox, who was first brought out by Penrose in New York and Massachusetts and together with Pennsylvania this would be enough to win, may be necessary to make the

MEXICAN ENVOYS DUE IN U. S.

Coming to Adjust Relations With Washington

WASHINGTON.—(By Associated Press.)—Reports have reached the state department through unofficial channels that the new Mexican government is about to send to the U. S. a mission to discuss the relations between the two countries. In an entirely informal way, Miguel Covarrubias, the dean of Mexican diplomats, and Fernando Iglesias Coladron, a historian of note, are mentioned as heading the mission. The mission will not have plenary powers, but it is the desire of the Mexican government, according to the reports, that it determine a basis for the adjustment of all the differences between the two countries. The members of the mission intend to confer with leading members of the senate and house and officials of the administration and to discuss the formation of an international claims commission, as well as some of the legislation of Mexico against which the United States has made frequent formal protest.

MEXICO CITY.—Generals Francisco L. Uribe, Federico Montemayor and Juan Barragan have been formally detained in connection with the death of former President Venustiano Carranza. This action was taken by the third federal district court last night. A committee of two military experts reported to the court that General Uribe, General Barragan and Francisco de P. Mariel were chiefly responsible for the death of Carranza, because among other reasons, "they did not die at his side as they should have done."

RUE DE LA PAIX WEALTH IS NOW $10,000,000,000

PARIS.—The richest street in the world is Rue de la Paix. Paris, according to recent figures, has the estimated combined wealth of the firms owning offices and showrooms on the Rue de la Paix is $10,000,000,000, excluding the capital of three banks.

When Paquin, the dressmaker, wanted to acquire all additional show window he found that it would cost him $150,000 a front for merely for the lease.

INTEREST AT LATONIA

CINCINNATI.—Interest in racing circles here centers on the running of the thirty-eight renewal of the Latonia Derby in which 11 high class three year olds are entered to compete at the Latonia course Saturday afternoon.

Paul Jones, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and the Suburban handicap and H. P. Whitney's Up set are the horses named to go in the rich event which has an added value of $15,000. The distance is one and one half miles.

ticket Knox and Coolidge to catch the fancy of Massachusetts and if that isn't possible there are some Lowden delegates in populous Ohio who might be brought into camp by making the ticket Knox and Harding. A Jesse moves are under consideration as the convention makes an effort to finish its business by Saturday night. A deadlock in the balloting would upset all calculations and keep the convention here to the middle of next week.

LABOR AROUSED AGAINST G. O. P.

Platform Defends the Enemies of Unions, Say Leaders

MONTREAL.—(By Associated Press.)—The Republican convention has "turned its back upon labor" and has adopted a platform "defiant in its defense of the enemies of labor and calculated to secure for them fresh advantages and greater privileges," Samuel Gompers and Matthew Woll, president and vice president of the American Federation of Labor, declared here today in a statement presented at the federation's annual convention.

The labor declaration of the platform as adopted, they asserted, "proposes an industrial enslavement and an abrogation of rights as precious as life itself."

"While there is in the platform a certain shrewdness in selection of language, there is never any opportunity for doubt as to the true meaning of their provisions relating to labor," they added.

The statement, which was presented to the convention by President Gompers, goes into great detail, pointing out labor's grievances against the Republican platform and vigorously assails the Republicans for neglecting anti-protection legislation recommendations.

"The Republican platform practically ignores the profiteer," the statement said.

The Mexican plank of the platform, the labor leaders charged, "clearly aims to undermine the sovereignty of the Mexican people and to make the maintenance of order in Mexico the business of the government of the United States."

The Republican endorsement of the transportation act of 1920 was declared to be a "complete denial and repudiation of the demands submitted by labor and is an emphatic endorsement of the labor provisions of the Cummins-Esch railroad act."

BOLSHEVICK CAVALRY CUT POLISH R. R. LINE

WARSAW.—Russian Bolshevick cavalry engaged in the drive southwest of Kiev designed to encircle that city, has cut the railroad between Kiev and Berdichev at several places and has pierced the Polish front lines at various points, according to news from the front.

The Soviet forces are reported to number from 30,000 to 40,000, and one body of their cavalry numbers 9,000 men.

This leaves the Poles with but a single line of railroad into Kiev. Heavy fighting continues on both sides of the city and infantry is in action all along the front.

MINERS DEMAND WEST VA. PROBE

Allege Outrages Under Direction of Governor Cornwell

MONTREAL.—Charging that "unspeakable outrages inflicted upon the mine workers of West Virginia by hundreds of armed detectives and gunmen employed by the coal interests have become a matter of national shame," the United Mine Workers of America called upon the American Federation of Labor to demand a senatorial or congressional investigation into conditions in that state.

The resolution, which declares that Governor Cornwell has "miscreantly failed" to discharge his obligations as a public officer and properly protect the citizens of his commonwealth, assumes that there are 40,000 mine workers in West Virginia who are still arbitrarily denied the opportunity of becoming members of a labor organization and also are prevented from enjoying any of the privileges and prerogatives which accrue to citizenship.

Officers of the United Mine Workers of America have from time to time appealed to the governor of West Virginia, said the resolution, for correction of these conditions, and have upon occasion brought before him in person injured victims of gunmen employed by the coal operators, but have in every instance failed to secure enforcement of the laws of the state.

ARREST MAKES OMELET OF PEDDLER'S PRISONER

NEWARK, N. J.—Jake Diamond detected two boys stealing eggs from his peddler's wagon in Central Market. He shouted, and the boys fled with Diamond, a traffic policeman and several pedestrians in pursuit. "Grab 'em by the neck," shouted Diamond. "Don't break the eggs!"

One of the boys escaped Diamond closed with the other, and to save himself on the uneven pavement grabbed the boy around the waist. The lad, looking like a cross between a Walsh rabbit and a Swiss sunset, was discharged with a warning in court.

HARDING IN RACE FOR SENATOR

Walter F. Brown, Toledo, Also A Candidate

DONAHEY IS UNOPPOSED

Hughes, of Lima, on List For Supreme Court Judge

COLUMBUS.—United States Senator Warren G. Harding is a candidate for renomination. At two minutes before midnight, the hour at which time for filing for the August primary expired, the senator's declaration of candidacy was filed with the secretary of state by George B. Harris, of Cleveland.

The senator's declaration, according to Harris, was made out Thursday in Chicago, being brot here last night.

Senator Harding's entrance into the race for the toga makes it a six cornered affair. Walter F. Brown, of Toledo, chairman of the progressive state central committee in 1912 and a Harding delegate at the Chicago convention, telegraphed the secretary of state's office last night that he was forwarding his declaration for senatorial nomination by mail.

Senator Harding's statement in Chicago early today that his entrance into the battle for senatorial honors would not alter his status as a presidential candidate, attracted attention in Ohio and other states.

Five Republicans are seeking the nomination for governor. The complete list of candidates who have filed for various offices is as follows:

REPUBLICAN:

United States Senator—Warren G. Harding; R. M. Wanamaker, Akron; Walter F. Brown, Toledo; Frank B. Willis, Delaware; J. P. Walser, Akron; Macy Violet Walcutt, Fairfield-co.

SEVEN DROWN AS EAGLE BOAT IS HIT BY SQUALL IN THE DELAWARE RIVER

WILMINGTON, Del.—Seven members of the crew of Eagle Boat Number 25, of the United States Navy, comprising three officers and four seamen, were believed today to have been drowned when the vessel was struck by a squall in the Delaware River near this city Friday.

Navy officials state that the fate of the men will not be definitely known until late today. The accident occurred during a heavy electrical storm.

The little craft carried a crew of seven officers and 51 men. The steamer Thomas Clyde picked up 46 and four other were rescued by the Independence Call, out of Hog Island Ship Yard on her trial run. One man chieled a hole in the side of the Eagle Boat and swam ashore.

HARDING GAINS; RECESS TAKEN

G. O. P. Convention Is Still Held Fast In Deadlock—Slight Changes Made When the Seventh Ballot Is Cast

CHICAGO — With Lowden leading Wood by seven votes in the eighth ballot and Harding showing a big gain, the Republican national convention recessed at 1:30 until 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The convention at that time was still in a deadlock.

When Kansas had been reached on the fifth ballot Wood had lost 7 votes and Harding had gained 6.

Wood had lost 14 1-2 votes when Missouri was reached. Lowden had lost 1 1-2. Harding was making an occasional gain.

When New York threw 42 to Lowden, a great roar swept the convention hall and the Lowden supporters went into a loud demonstration. That threw Lowden a gain of 8 1-2 on the balloting so far.

On the sixth ballot it appeared that Wood and Lowden were tied with three hundred and eleven and a half votes each. Harding had eighty-nine, a gain of 11 over his showing on the fifth.

At the end of the seventh ballot Wood lead Lowden by only a half vote.

COLISEUM, CHICAGO.—(By Associated Press)—At 10:25 o'clock Chairman Lodge called the fifth day's session of the Republican national convention to order for the fifth ballot.

Nicholas Murray Butler released his delegates and a caucus of the New York delegation showed this way: Lowden 41; Wood 24; Harding 6; Coolidge 5; Butler 4; Hoover 3; Johnson 3; Poindexter 1; and W. L. Ward, the Westchester county leader, 1.

Fifth ballot is ordered and voting is put under way.

Launching into its fifth ballot Saturday in search of a nominee for the presidency, the Republican national convention was prepared to have some further tests of strength between Lowden, Wood and Johnson and then, if necessary, turn to the string of dark horses.

The all-night conference among leaders had put Senator Harding of Ohio, at the head of the dark horse group.

All night long and early Saturday morning the heads of various groups were conferring and the trend of most of the conferences seemed to be to find some way to throw Wood and Lowden strength to Harding.

The leaders, worn and sleepless were late in reaching convention hall but the delegates, with their interest raised to fever heat, came early, hoping to see the thing finished, that they might get away for home.

BOOM FOR HARDING LAUNCHED BY CHIEFS

CHICAGO.—(By Associated Press)—Harding of Ohio, emerged Saturday from all night conferences of Republican chieftains as the man with whom they hope to break the imminent deadlock on the presidential nomination.

On him they plan to concentrate their strength should the convention fail to break thru the blockade established Friday by four ballots.

Senator Harding participated in the conferences. He also saw Senator Johnson in the latter's private apartments, but the California senator described the visit as a "convention call."

Details of the meeting were not disclosed. It gained significance because backers of the Harding movement are looking to Johnson supporters for aid if their plans materialize.

The tentative plan of originators of the new Harding boom was contingent upon failure of early votes Saturday to result in nomination of Wood, Lowden or Johnson. Among those with whom Senator Harding conferred during the night were Senators Wadsworth and Calder, New York; Brandegee, Connecticut; Smoot, Utah; William Barnes, Jr., and Ogden Mills, New York.

ACTION NECESSITATED

Participants in these conferences and floor managers for Wood, Lowden and Johnson agreed that first ballots would show increased strength for the leading candidates. The managers for the "big three" in no way relaxed their energy or lost confidence in success. Backers of the Harding compromise contended that no nomination would be reached as the situation now stands. They put forward their plan to meet this condition and believing that delegates would not remain over until Monday, necessitated action.

The Harding boomers expected on early ballots to receive enough support in addition to the 61 1-2 votes he polled on the last roll call Friday.

BANDIT BECOMES HERO QUICKLY

Mexican Outlaw of Oil Fields Friend of Order

COMMANDS AT TAMPICO

New Policy Manifested by Oregon Government

MEXICO CITY—Fortunes of war have a poignant touch in Mexico. Take the case of Manuel Pelaez. In less than a week the recent revolution transferred Pelaez, "Bandit of the Oil Fields," an outlaw in the eyes of the Carranza government, to the place of guest of honor at a banquet table in Tampico's leading hotel. Among others who attended the banquet were leading American oil men and officers from the American gunboat which has "visited" Tampico.

Without a shot being fired, Tampico went over to the cause of revolution on Saturday May 9. Pelaez had long been a thorn in the side of Carranza not only because he successfully defied the government in his revolution activities, but because he collected a generous sum every month from the oil companies in payment for "protection" he afforded in the field. But with the flight of Carranza and the collapse of the old government, Manuel Pelaez became the outstanding figure in his part of the country. On the night of Wednesday, May 12, after the Carranzistas in Tampico either had evacuated the city or joined the revolutionaries, Pelaez donned his smartest uniform and marched into the town.

He couldn't have done that a week before—but things had changed—and press dispatches from Tampico report that Pelaez "was welcomed by a large number of citizens who showed the distinguished general every attention and consideration." The banquet was started the night after the triumphal entry.

Today Pelaez is the revolutionary commander of the Tampico situation. Oil operations are continuing as usual. Oil men, moreover, believe they will enjoy smoother sailing under the revolutionary powers, than they did when Carranza flourished. For Carranza not only flourished, but he frequently fumed and the oil men made little progress in their effort to obtain a more favorable interpretation of Mexican laws.

Now Pelaez owns oil property. In fact, one of the principal reasons for his opposing Carranza was his belief that the old government dealt unfairly with the oil interests. He objected to the interpretation of article 27 of the 1917 constitution. This article not only nationalized oil property, but, pending a decision to the contrary, was made to apply retroactively. Pelaez also believed that in the matter of royalties and taxes, the government had assumed an unjust attitude.

What will be Pelaez' official status under the new regime has not yet been indicated. It is declared he is ready to "play the game" with Carranza, now that his old foe, Carranza, has been ousted. What he says on the oil question, according to the opinion here, is certain to receive attention.

Oregon, moreover, declared in a recent interview with the United Press that he was opposed to Carranza's oil policy and against any retroactive interpretation of the Mexican laws. So there are strong indications, at least, that a settlement of the oil controversy will be one result of the revolution.

Just now the representatives of the American oil companies are puzzled by the request of the revolutionaries that they pay their taxes before they are due, the revolutionaries being in need of money. Some of the companies have paid in full, others have made part payments and some are still hesitating. As a business proposition the oil men are inclined to pay—for they are getting bargain rates—but politically, they doubt the authority of anyone in Mexico City to sign a valid receipt.

BEING SLIM GAINED

MAN HIS LIBERTY

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Being slim gained Harry Barron his liberty from the City Jail here a few nights ago. The rest of the inmates of the lockup are of a plump build and are still behind the bars. Barron, charged with burglary and grand larceny, sawed off a bar in the jail and managed to squeeze thru and scale two tiers of cells to the roof. Arriving there, he entered himself to the ground with a rope made of blankets.

BOY WHO STEPPED ON TRAILING ROPE MAY DIE

NEW YORK. — Francis Dixon, fourteen years old, is in a critical condition in the Post Graduate Hospital with concussion of the brain and possibly a fracture of the skull, received when he stepped on a rope which was trailing from a moving truck near his home. Detectives are seeking the driver who did not stop after the accident.

A number of persons saw Dixon thrown as he stepped on the rope. Screams of women attracted his father, who picked the boy up and ran four blocks to a hospital with him.

SPROUL BOOSTED AS EASTER

His State Oasis in Democratic Desert Says Moore

NEEDED TO SAVE PARTY

Claimed As Father of Good Roads Program

CHICAGO. — (By Associated Press.)—Selection of an Eastern candidate for the presidency has become a matter of importance, Mayor J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia told the Republican National convention today in nominating William Cameron Sproul, governor of Pennsylvania.

"The great empire state now has a Democratic governor," Mayor Moore said. "So has New Jersey, Ohio, Maryland and West Virginia. The situation is embarrassing to national Republicanism. Pennsylvania is now in reality a Republican oasis surrounded by normally Democratic states in a desert of Democratic executives. And this on the Eastern front where Republicanism has been regarded as impracticable."

"We cannot afford to further weaken this Republican stronghold. The selection of an Eastern candidate therefore, becomes a matter of importance."

Recounting Pennsylvania's history, Mr. Moore said that "As it is the Keystone of the arch in the beginning of this republic, so is it the Keystone of the arch today."

"Pennsylvania has been the bulwark of Republicanism, the anchor of our destiny in every national campaign," he said. "In all fairness, the time has come when a candidate of the Republican party qualified to be president of the United States should hail from Pennsylvania. We know we have the man."

"In common with her sister states, Pennsylvania seeks the overthrow of this seven years blight that has shocked our American institutions and burdened our people."

"Pennsylvania realizes first that a strong man is needed and it presents a candidate who is in good health, who is physically fit, who is mixed with the people and knows their hopes and ambitions."

Mayor Moore said Governor Sproul was known as "the father of good roads." He told of the many laws that had been simplified since the governor entered office and referred to the governor as a "modern McKinley" whose election to the presidency would assure the country of an early and sane resumption of normal business.

FEARED, HOUSE GUARDED

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y. — Fear that an attempt might be made to harm Gloria, infant daughter of Enrico Corbasi, has caused a heavy guard of private detectives to be thrown around the singer's estate here pending investigation of the half million dollar jewel robbery which occurred last Tuesday.

The Tappan Auto Electric Co., are now located at 110 Water street until their new building is completed.

CENTRAL PLAYS 5 TO 5 TIE WITH SOUTH HI

Coming back strong in the last inning after seemingly beaten Central overcame the 4 to 1 lead of the South high nine and after twenty minutes air-tight and thrilling play, the two teams reached a 5 to 5 tie, in the third game between the two local schools at the College Field Friday afternoon.

With all Central hopes dim and dull, Edwards stepped to the bat, in the first of the seventh. First and second bases were full and, there were two outs.

Edwards gave the pill a vicious wallop, sending it into an unprotected portion of center field. Taking advantage of a slight outfield fumble Edwards ran like a dart and stretched the hit for a three bagger, scoring Kohli and Lyle for Central.

At the start of the game Central got the lead by a margin of 1 run. However in the third and fourth innings South scored four rallies.

The Central players were unable to get in contact with the pill very often and it was only the timely grounder by Edwards in the seventh that saved the game for the Centralites.

Both teams were represented by a large number of rooters and cheerers. By this tie game the two rival high schools are deadlocked for the school baseball championship of the city.

The teams are showing remarkable improvement in playing, with less errors on each side.

It is not known definitely when the tie will be played off.

The score was as follows:

Central	12	4	5	6	7
South	1	0	0	0	4
Line-ups:	Central—Blunk, 1b; Kohli, p; Lyle, ss; Edwards, 1b; Klein, 2b; Johnson, 3b; Roseker, rf; Godfrey, cf; Cordeman, lf.

HARDING GAINS RECESS TAKEN

day to pave the way for a drive for his nomination later.

Originators of the Harding compromise plan were known to be seeking support of the California senator's adherents if it became clear that Johnson could not be nominated. To insure strong reinforcements from that direction, some leaders urged during the night conferences that a ticket of Harding for President and Johnson for vice president be put forward. There was nothing to indicate that Senator Johnson would consent.

WOULD MAINTAIN VETO

Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts also was mentioned as a possible running mate for Harding should Senator Johnson elect to give his support but not his name to the ticket.

Either of these courses would maintain the veto power over convention action, which has been claimed for the California senator from the beginning.

Backers of the Harding boom claimed they could muster between 150 and 200 votes for Harding on an early ballot Saturday and that if Johnson could be induced to accept the vice presidential nomination on the compromise ticket, practically his entire strength could be swung into line.

WOOD INFORMED

Whether Senator Penrose was aware of the new proposal here is a moot question. At one conference it was declared he was. It was denied later.

General Wood was informed of the new move. He brought his managers together during the night and they determined to stick to their guns.

Former Senator W. Murray Crane was advised early of the plan. He was non-committal and seemed inclined to avoid developments. Arguments used by backers of the compromise were that Harding had a good record, was not involved materially in the senatorial campaign expenditures inquiry and had the confidence of conservative and progressive interests.

Conferences between leaders of all factions looking to a nomination today resulted in many hotels and clubs immediately after adjournment yesterday. They were still going on when the sun brightened Lake Michigan. The outcome still was in the depths of turbulent political waves.

Negotiations between faction leaders followed separate group meetings. They culminated in the call of Senator Harding upon Senator Johnson.

EARLY VOTE FORECAST Not until many influential party stalwarts felt that the triangular deadlock between the "big three" offered little hope of an early nomination that insured party unity, did the Harding movement make progress.

For important changes were expected Saturday's first ballot. It was expected the New York delegation would turn to other candidates the few votes remaining at the close Friday for Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

Gains in New York for both Wood and Lowden were claimed by their managers. They also expected further divided gains from Oregon, Missouri, Delaware, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, North Dakota and possibly Michigan and Nebraska. Friends of both candidates were hopeful that today's lineup would put one of the two over the top while Johnson workers also expected confidence of a "break" to the Californian.

Senator Harding's friends and other leaders not closely associated with the Ohioan but interested primarily in "a harmony ticket" developed the Harding movement. Many leaders were sounded out on all dark horses, with Senator Harding apparently securing the greatest support.

Delicate relationships were involved in the Harding negotiations but most of the leaders in the early morning conferences appeared agreeable to trying Harding first among the large field of dark horse material. In the background, however, were formidable compromise eligibles like Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania. Leaders were prepared to take up another should the Harding boom be wrecked.

Just when or how a "break" to Harding might be launched remained for discussion at breakfast table councils this morning.

WHEN FAITHFULS PAID FINAL TRIBUTE TO MEXICO'S MURDERED PRESIDENT

The body of President Carranza lying in state. At the left of the casket are Generals Federico Montes F. de P. and Juan Barragan, who were with him at the time of his death.

The picture above marks the end of the final chapter in the romantic life history of General Carranza, president of Mexico at the time he was murdered by one of his own generals during the revolt now on in his country. Carranza was fleeing from Mexico City, the capital, with a mere handful of his faithful generals and aides at the time of his death. He was shot while sleeping in a tent by one of the men Carranza trusted during the uprising against him in which many of his generals and soldiers deserted him. The body of the president was taken to the Villa Juarez, Nuevo Mexico, for the funeral. It lay in state for days before interment and thousands of Mexicans—most of them peons—filed past the casket.

LIMA HIGH GIVES 135 DIPLOMAS

One hundred and thirty five graduates received their diplomas at the joint commencement exercises of the South and Central high schools at Memorial Hall Friday evening.

Doctor Glen Frank, associate editor of the Century Magazine, was the principal address of the evening. His topic was "A Liberal Education." For the past ten years Frank has been connected with many educational reforms and he gave some interesting facts on this subject.

According to Frank, in the past this plan of educating a student was followed: "The teacher would roll a series of facts into balls and distribute them to the students during the daily recitations. On examination day these balls would be ordered returned and the student sending his ball back, the least untouched or unmailed would be the honor pupil. This mode of education is obsolete and out of date."

Frank pointed out that a liberal education should first make a student a democrat in his attitude toward wealth, teaching him the honest production, wise consumption and just distribution of it. Second it should make him a Puritan in his conduct, as third an Aristocrat in his work.

During the course of his speech, Frank took occasion to praise the Lima public schools for being clean, and free from the old stereotyped process of education.

The program was opened with several pieces from the high school orchestra. After the main talk, Guy Butler, president of the board of education presented the diplomas. All the seniors were seated on the stage. The girls were attired in white, with beautiful corsages. The boys wore dark suits. A class of sixteen normal students were graduated also.

NEURALGIA'S ONE SYMPTOM

Neuralgia is a disease which has but one symptom—pain.

The pain of neuralgia is sharp and shooting with intervals of freedom.

An attack of neuralgia does not give immunity but recurrences are the rule. The same nerve is generally affected which means that this particular nerve has lost its resistance and that there will be recurring attacks until the strength of the nerve is built up.

How can the strength of the nerve be restored? The nerves are nourished entirely by the blood and weak nerves are toned up by supplying to the blood the elements that the nerves lack. As the general health and strength of the patient are built up the nerves resume their normal functions, inflammation caused by lack of nutrition disappears and the neuralgic attacks cease.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic especially well suited for the treatment of neuralgia because they contain no alcohol, stimulants or habit forming drugs. The treatment with these pills is well worth a trial by any sufferer from neuralgia.

Your own druggist can supply you with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or you can order direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 60 cents a box. Write for the booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System."

The Tappan Auto Electric Co., are now located at 110 Water street until their new building is completed.

ARMENIA

THE Senate and House, just prior to adjournment, declined to assume the mandatory over Armenia, which was suggested by President Wilson, says the Dayton News. Time alone will have to disclose where the fault will lay in the event Armenia is entirely engulfed by either the Turks or the Bolsheviks. Both forces are struggling to gain the national control. Whether it was incumbent upon the United States to assume this responsibility or whether the opportunity belonged to some one of the European countries more closely associated with affairs there, is a matter that none adequately and finally can discuss. But in Armenia's future, the fact remains that unless (what ever nation or group of nations are concerned) somebody does something speedily there will be no Armenia to trouble the conscience of humanity before long.

Little by little the forces of brutality are eating the life out of that forsaken nation. Every day sees some new evidence of barbarity toward a people already harassed to the death. Massacres are threatened hourly by enemy tribes and no one nation is willing to stand out and assume the authority for protecting this helpless people against the incursions of those who seek the complete destruction of the little country. Was it for such an end that Armenia hoped the Allies might win the struggle against the Central Powers? Was it to achieve so base a national death that she threw in her all too little force against the armies and militant powers? Is civilization to repay its debt to Armenia by simply refusing to lend a hand and stand with eyes covered while the savage Turks or the brutal Bolshevik tear Armenia from limb to limb?

The world is passing thru an unusual period of depression, so far as the moral leadership among the great powers is concerned. Every nation appears so much engrossed in its commercial enterprises that it has little time for consideration of the affairs of the weaker countries. But this sort of a situation calls loudly for remedial efforts. We may stop our ears to Armenia's cries for succor, but that doesn't relieve the little children, the mother and aged men of the country from the horrors of massacre and destruction. Ostrich-like humanity may bury its head in the sand and fancy that it is hidden from view, but that is cowardly, inhuman and intolerable as a condition. Armenia should be guaranteed her independence and freedom from aggression and barbarities by a strong league of world powers that will enforce justice and establish liberty.

WEAK MEN AND STRONG ONES

THE Buffalo Times, in a delightful preachment concerning weak men and strong ones, says "It is almost a truism that very great men or very strong men are, as a general thing, proverbially courteous and gentle. There are exceptions to the rule, of course, but the exceptions are rare."

The editor goes on to speak in truism language. A great man possesses either by nature or acquirement wide vision and clear perception. Understanding his own faults, he wins in spite of them by the exercise of qualities which neutralize or overcome the influence of his defects. He is thus able to estimate more correctly the difficulties which confront lesser men and weaker natures. Being great, he is charitable; and being charitable, he is courteous.

And then the weak men. "Being little, they like to ape strength and as much of greatness as their littleness can envision. They would like to 'lord it,' and therefore endeavor to assume the airs of 'lordship.' They are only courteous when they meet and fear or try to curry favor with superiority. But fear is the predominating motive."

Most men know their strength and their weakness. People understand themselves better than they pretend to. We may not be able to see ourselves as others see us but we see ourselves as we are more frequently than is generally supposed. In fact, most of our attempts to display wisdom or our strength is due to the fact that we know we do not possess wisdom or strength, but seek to prevent others from finding it out.

THE HOBO

SOME men appear to have been born to hobo life; to others the existence is acquired thru laziness, while to a third, the habit is thrust upon them. But whatever the impulse which stirs men's hearts to a life of wanderlust, it must be apparent to everyone that despite all reports and hopes to the contrary, the hobo still remains with us to beg a meal at our back door and indulge in his devil-may-care liberties. In many cities the tramp of the common or garden variety is being taken in hand whenever he appears and put to work—hard work at that. Hard work cures the disposition to be lazy. In other places the hobo is given two hours to find a job or get out of town. Generally he gets out of town. But whatever the method pursued, it is manifestly unjust to thrifty housewives or hard working husbands that an idle class should spring up in our cities and live off of another's labor. This isn't democracy. It isn't anything but a near approach to Sovietism.

THE DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

By William Jennings Bryan

To every political observer two things are apparent: First, that the contest for the Democratic presidential nomination is proceeding without acrimony. The Republicans are fighting and harpuling in an arena that is vocal with accusation and cries of distress. If the public can believe what the Republican candidates are saying about each other—and they are all honorable men—none of them are fit for the office to which they aspire.

How different the situation in the Democratic party! Every thing is as peaceful as a pink tea; the candidates are most ladylike in their treatment of each other—it is, "After you, Alphonso." "You first, Gaston." "No, no, I'll let you go first, Gaston, or it is because the prospects of success are not so exciting."

That brings us to the second obvious characteristic of the campaign, viz., the shortage in Democratic votes, as shown by the primaries and by the various straw votes recently taken. Take Nebraska, for instance. In 1916 President Wilson carried the state by 41,000 majority; this year, in spite of the spirited fight over the liquor question, the Democrats polled only about 70,000 votes at the primaries, while the Republicans polled about 130,000 in Michigan, the Republicans polled more than twice as many votes as the Democrats. In Ohio, the Republicans polled considerably more than twice as many votes as the Democrats carried Ohio in 1916. The same rule holds good—or should I say, holds good—throughout California, Massachusetts and other states where a vote has been taken.

The Literary Digest poll, the largest ever taken, reveals a lamentable scarcity of Democratic votes. But more astounding than the scarcity of Democratic votes is the apparent landslide of democratic voters to Republican candidates. The voters are asked to state their party affiliations, and, up to the publication of the poll, about 75 per cent of the 14,000,000 Democrats expressed a preference for Republican candidates while the number of Democrats expressing a choice for Democratic candidates was only a little greater, viz., 1,070,000. The proportion is as great in the issue of May 22. It is quite unusual for more than two-fifths of the members of a party to indicate a leaning toward the candidates of the opposite party at the beginning of a campaign. Of course, the Digest's poll cannot include all the voters—they are counting upon only eleven millions out of the total number of voters, and the votes already in represent only about one-tenth of the total expected. It would not be fair, therefore, to regard the Republican trend as conclusive, but it is enough to excite alarm among the Democrats—enough to compel earnest consideration of the problem which must be met in the campaign.

The question which will be asked with increasing emphasis at the convention approaches is, How can the Democratic party rally to its standards in the minds of delegates at a national convention, however many they may differ as to the methods to be employed? Some will insist on doing anything that promises victory while others will insist that the best way to win is to deserve to win; but these two groups are united in purpose. Having in view this primary object of winning, let us consider the relative availability of the candidates, and it must be remembered that availability is not necessary proportionate to merit.

To begin with, the President needed to be considered. While vague hints and suggestions have been thrown out occasionally, no one claiming to speak for the President, or near enough to him to be assumed to express his wishes, has announced his candidacy.

Mr. Hoover need not be considered among the available. For a time he seemed to hesitate about declaring his allegiance to any party. He was inclined to wait until the platforms were written, with a view to choosing the one which came nearest to his ideas. But this hesitation did not last long. For some reason—whether he acted voluntarily or was pushed by his backers, I cannot say—he plunged into the Republican pool and became a rival of Senator Johnson for California's instructions. Before he had the platform chosen, many Democrats joined his colors and some of these would doubtless follow him into the Republican party if he were the nominee. But he appears to have but little chance in the Republican convention and none at all at San Francisco.

The most active of the avowed candidates for the Democratic nomination is Gov. Edwards of New Jersey. The primary vote shows that he has strong following among the Knights of Trust. Democrats of his variety thrive luxuriantly in the wet cities. His propaganda, however, does not take to any great extent in the agricultural section and his following in the convention will not be sufficient to make him a serious competitor for the nomination. Before the convention the Supreme Court is likely to deny his platform by affirming the right of the people of the United States to amend their Constitution as to prohibit the manufacture and sale of beverage liquors; and second, by denying the right of his and other states to nullify the national enforcement law by state statute. His opposition to prohibition is so violent that he would not be available on a wet platform and a wet platform is an impossibility.

Gov. Cox of Ohio is likely to be the residuary legatee of all the other wet candidates and may be regarded as the final rallying point for all Democrats who, either because of their own fondness for intoxicants, regard law for liquor as the only legitimate affection and the right to buy it as the only inalienable right guaranteed by the Constitution.

Gov. Cox's friends will urge him as a compromise between wets of the Edwards type and the bone-drys. His supporters will make their fight under the false flag of party harmony—a harmony in which they would feel no interest whatever if they could murder one majority for a plank. But Gov. Cox's record is as melodramatic as Gov. Edwards, and he is likely to have a longer period. The New Jersey Governor began work in the vineyard, if I may be pardoned the illustration, at the eleventh hour, while Gov. Cox entered in the morning and perspired under the rays of the rising sun of prohibition. He can secure letters of commendation from all the brewers, distillers, wholesalers, retailers and toppers in his state. He refused to aid in securing an enforcement law in Ohio after the voters had written prohibition into the Constitution by 25,000 majority and then he sat silent in the Governor's office while the representatives of the liquor traffic, with his knowledge if not with his aid, waged a bitter fight against every law that the temperance element had secured during the past fifty years. He was willing to allow these reactionaries to repeal constitutional prohibition, nullify the enforcement law, and withdraw Ohio's name from the list of ratifying states—erase it from the nation's roll of honor! He was even willing that the brewers should write into Ohio's constitution a falsehood, declaring that 2.75 per cent beer is not intoxicating, thus violating the national enforcement act. No wonder he has the enthusiastic support of those who manufacture criminals for pay and make a business of the corruption of politics. It is the height of audacity that a man with such a record and such a support should aspire to a Democratic nomination in face of the fact that every Democratic state ratified prohibition amendment, and in face of the further fact that thirty-four of the states are dry by their own individual acts. The absurdity of his candidacy becomes the more apparent when it is remembered that at least fifteen million women will be able to vote at the coming presidential election by virtue of state laws. If the suit amendment is ratified before November some twenty-five million women will be entitled to vote.

Vice-President Marshall is making a feeble bid for the wet vote, but he is hampered by his church connections. His religious speeches excite suspicion among those who might otherwise be attracted by his denunciation of national prohibition while Christians are disgusted by his wretchedness. In like manner the Vice-President is inviting Wall Street support by his praise of "old fashioned democracy," and by his veiled opposition to the initiative and referendum, but the enthusiasm of the reactionaries is likely to be dampened by the rude remarks which he occasionally makes against the exploiting class.

Attorney General Palmer entered the campaign with considerable advantage. He was in a position to deal sternly with the profiteers and an expectant public stood ready to applaud. But the profiteer seems to have things all his own way and the Attorney General is now suffering from the reaction, which philosophers tell us is equal to the action and in the opposite direction. He also roused the antagonism of labor and has his opposition to a greater extent than any other Democratic aspirant.

He is unfortunate, too, in having to espouse the ratification of the treaty without reservations. His candidacy is, in this respect a rebuke to twenty-seven of the Democratic Senators, twenty-three of whom voted for ratification with reservations and four of whom opposed the treaty entirely. The primaries reveal Mr. Palmer's weakness as a candidate. In Michigan he polled a little over eleven thousand votes out of about eighty thousand votes cast by Democrats. In Georgia he polled about one-third of the votes cast at the Democratic primary. In the Literary Digest poll up to May 22nd, he has secured only seventeen thousand out of some three hundred thousand votes cast for Democratic candidates.

Ex-Secretary McAdoo has, up to this time, led all the other candidates as far as the sentiment of the party can be gauged by primaries and polls, although his name has been on the ballot in so few places that the proof is only a prime fact. He came next to Hoover in Michigan and has a considerable lead in the Digest poll. His vote of eighty-six thousand out of some three hundred thousand Democratic votes counted is quite complimentary to him, coming as they do from the whole counting vote of the state. It is not a very encouraging vote of confidence when it is measured against more than nine hundred thousand votes cast for Republican candidates.

As Mr. McAdoo has announced no platform it is impossible to know what following he will have when his position on public questions is known. It is evident that he has considerable strength among the wage earners, especially in railroad centers, but he is handicapped by silence on the treaty question. If he agrees with the President in the latter's desire to make it a campaign issue, he is at variance with the sentiment of the voters; if he favors ratification with reservations, he is not in a position, for family reasons, to lead the opposition to the President.

He is even more seriously handicapped by his close relationship to the President. Without being able to call to his support those to whom the President's candidacy appealed with special force, he furnishes an easy mark for all the President's enemies. The virulence of the hostility which he invites is very accurately described in the twenty-first chapter of Matthew, verses thirty-three to thirty-nine.

The Republicans have indicated the advantages which they would seek to take of his nomination by frequent reference to the marriage tie which binds him to the White House.

Speaker Clark has his own state behind him and has reason to feel complimented by the number of votes he has received in the Literary Digest Poll.

Judge Girard's candidacy has South Dakota's support and he has many personal friends among the delegates.

Senator Owen of Oklahoma and Secretary Meredith of Iowa will be presented by their respective states. They deserve to be named among the few available men thus far mentioned. To be available this year a candidate must be known to be for woman suffrage, for prohibition and against Wall Street.

By this standard, Senator Owen and Secretary Meredith are one hundred per cent available. (Copyright, 1920.)

That two-piece suit of yesterday. A thing of charm and grace. I carefully put it away. Last fall, and picked the place. I said: "I'll fool the H. C. L. And this will drap my form Again next year, and I'll die The profligating swarm."

I took it from its hiding place. 'T was not much to befit. The cloth in it had disappeared. The leather belt was lost. The moth balls that I went and paid My money for, last fall. The moths just loved. A pleasant Time was had by one and all.

"The next constitutional amendment must give us a single moral code," says Mr. W. J. Bryan, our well known evangelist. "Immorality has been one of the greatest sources of corruption in American life. . . . Man must live up to the standard of morals he has laid down for women. Severe penalties for immorality must be inflicted.

What lovely spring weather we are having since the great cold snap. Is it not wonderful to be able to sit under one's own lilac bush, hear the birds sing and delude one's self into the belief that there is still some good in the world? May we not say it is still a good old world—even if it isn't?

I see that the cost of running the United States next year will be $5,059,667,000, which would lead one to think that the United States was married.

The farmers are complaining of a cat shortage, but we don't know of a farmer who doesn't drive one.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT
This is an uncertain day. Bitter criticism and slanderous accusations will prevail today. A labor uprising of unusual violence will mark the end of the summer.

The stars predict a crisis in Mexico that will have far-reaching international complications. A storm at sea which will cause great loss of life is indicated. Persons whose birthday this is should avoid travel this year. Children born today will lead lives filled with adventure. They should cultivate poise. (Copyright, 1920.)

YOU CAN'T TELL BY THE SKIRTS ANY MORE
Dear Roy, I ask you, now. Doesn't it make a fellow feel funny when he is walking down the street with a "girl" and the people all say, "Don't they make an ideal couple?"

And doesn't it make the "girl" feel proud as she takes the fellow's arm. And some gossiping person says, "Why don't they wait until they get home to spoon?" and the girl and the fellow look at each other and smile. For the girl is his Mother.

THIS PROBLEM OF HIGH COSTS

"Past history has proven quite conclusively that you can no more legislate the cost of living up and down than you can stop the tide by building a sea wall. The basic economic law of supply and demand always has and always will determine prices in spite of artificial restrictions which may seem to interfere temporarily. When demand exceeds supply, prices are bound to rise. With three men for a single loaf of bread, but one thing can happen. When supply exceeds demand the reverse is true. Three loaves of bread to one man brings prices tumbling down."

"The real cause for the present high prices is apparent when you realize that the United States is exporting at present twice the food stuffs that it exported in normal years. We are feeding Europe. What's more, we must continue to feed Europe until it gets back on its own feet again. Their crop of 1919 will help some, but we must wait until the harvest of 1920 before they are wholly independent of this country."

"It is more of a religious question than an economic one. Maximum production on the part of every individual must be made a moral issue. When people begin to look down on the man who is not a producer, or who curtails his production, we shall strike at the top root of the cost of living problem. We must go on a producing crusade with all the zeal and ardour displayed by the Crusaders of the Middle Ages—and we must start now."

SERVICE GIVEN BY PAPER HOUSE IS APPRECIATED

Allen Paper Company Shows Rapid Growth Because of Large
Stocks

There's a paper house in Lima that is the result of a vision of a paper salesman. In 1911 H. Weizelbaum offering paper to Lima trade had only about one hundred Lima customers. He had faith that a local house would meet every desire of the local trade at a lower price and quicker service. Thus the Allen Paper Company was opened at 112 East High street.

Today Mr. Weizelbaum numbers his Lima patrons at over 750. Local firms have found how convenient it is to have a large stock of paper in the city. In turn they have shown their appreciation by their ever increasing patronage.

This large stock has kept down the price of paper in Lima, so that many grades of wrapping paper are being sold cheaper here than in larger cities. It has been more profitable for many concerns who usually send salesmen here, to sell their stock in their own city.

Every mill, every trade journal, and other authentic sources of information predict still further advance in price of paper. Some grades continue steady on the present market, but light weight paper of all kinds are advancing in price with every shipment. No mill will give a fixed price but all paper is offered at price prevailing at time of shipment.

Every grocer knows that paper bags have not advanced in price in the same proportion as paper—they are due for an advance very soon. When the peak in price will be reached, no one seems to know, any any personal prediction is a guess.

COST OF NEW TIRES BEING SAVED

Gates Half Sole Tires Double the Mileage for Cars

"There's many an automobile tire that is being thrown away that would still be good for from five to ten thousand miles," says L. D. Van Rensselaer of the More Mileage Tire Co. at 126 East High street.

It's a shame these days to waste tires—to throw them away or sell them to the junk man for a few cents just because they are tread worn or rut worn.

Do you know that hundreds of the biggest business houses and over 1,000,000 motorists in the United States are getting tire mileage for only about one half what it cost them two years ago?

They are doing it by getting 10,000 to 15,000 miles out of the same kind of tires that they formerly threw away after they had run only 5,000 or 6,000 miles and you can do the same thing.

The Gates Half-Sole Tire has made this possible—it has revolutionized the tire business—and in these days of high costs and heavy expense it is being grasped by business men everywhere.

We can say to you with absolute confidence that the Gates Half-Sole Tire will give you more miles and better satisfaction than you have ever had before.

You have always wanted a puncture-proof tire and now you can have it and it's guaranteed puncture-proof.

And still these tires cost you only one half as much as other tires of corresponding size.

Short Shavings

What we call thrift in ourselves is sometimes stinginess in others.

But, cheer up, thrifty ones! The record in meanness is well established by the lady who called at the local shop in a country village, and gave a small—very small—order for goods, including a half a pound of cat's meat.

The shopkeeper was muttering angry words to himself half an hour later as he made up the order, when a flurried and breathless maid-servant dashed into the place.

"H-h-have you sent off Mrs. Grableigh's things yet?" she gasped.

"Just doing 'em," snapped the grocer, as he struggled with a sea of parcels.

"Oh, thank goodness!" gasped the girl. "Then don't send the cat's meat. The cat just caught a sparrow!"

Why is An Advertisement?

When the baby laughs, when the sun shines, when the flowers bloom, when dinner sends out its inviting aroma; when anyone of ten thousand things happen which attract your attention and gain your interest, you are being advertised to.

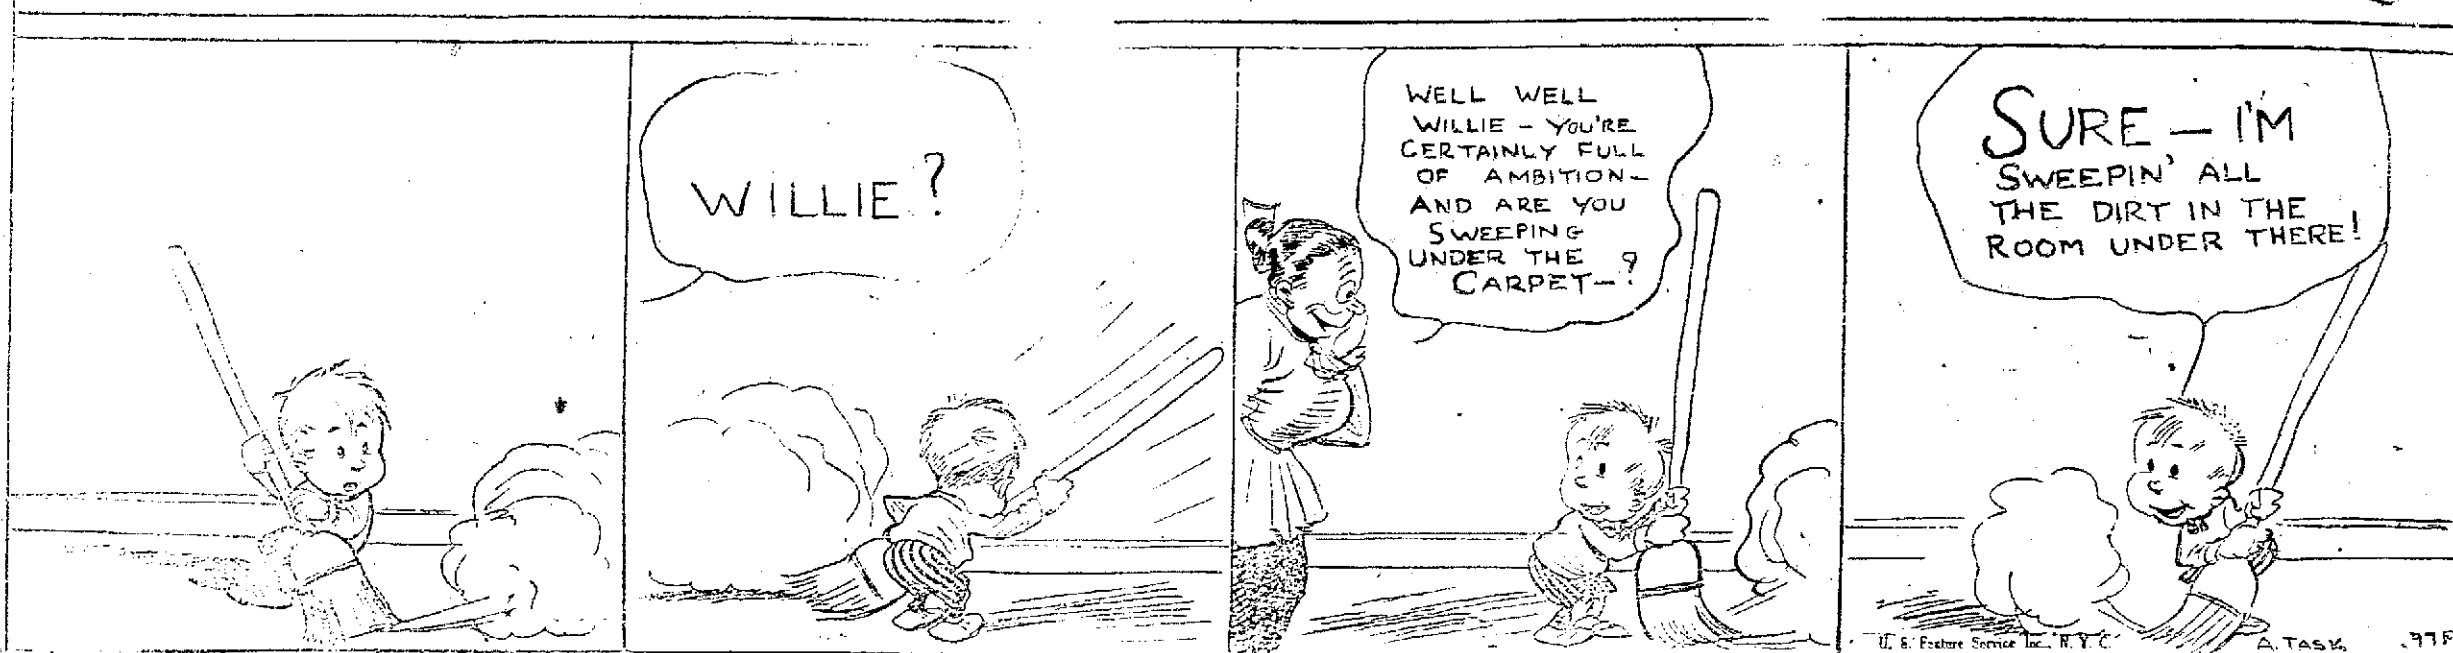

And that is the "why" and the whole purpose of any advertisement; to gain your attention, secure your interest, arouse your desire; to tell you something you don't know, to remind you of something you have forgotten, to convince you of something concerning which you have been hesitating, to help you get the best at the least cost.

Why is an advertisement? You can wrap the whole question up in a few words: To make you happier. Think it over, and see if you don't find that to be the true answer.

Bringing Up Bill

OUT OF SIGHT ANYWAY—

A Task

A mistress had a Yorkshire maid-of-all-work who had only one fault—a lack of cleanliness. "Do you know," Mary, the mistress at last summoned up courage to say, "if you would only wash your face every day in hot, soapy water, it would make you look beautiful."

"Would it now?" was Mary's answer. "I wonder, mum, ye've never tried it yerself."

"Do you know," said Prof. Brown to his bosom friend, "I cannot understand how people forget the ages of their children. I have no trouble. For example, I was born 2,300 years after Socrates; my wife, 1,800 years after the death of Tiberius Caesar; my son John, 2,000 years after Tiberius Sempronius Gracchus was chosen tribune of the people, and our daughter Amanda, 1,500 years after the beginning of the Polk wandering. It is perfectly simple, you see!"
